WILLOW CHALETs, TYROL

The willow chalets combine exclusivity and nature. Here you will find a retreat far away from everyday life, surrounded by alpine beauty. The stylish chalets harmoniously combine well thought-out design and natural materials.

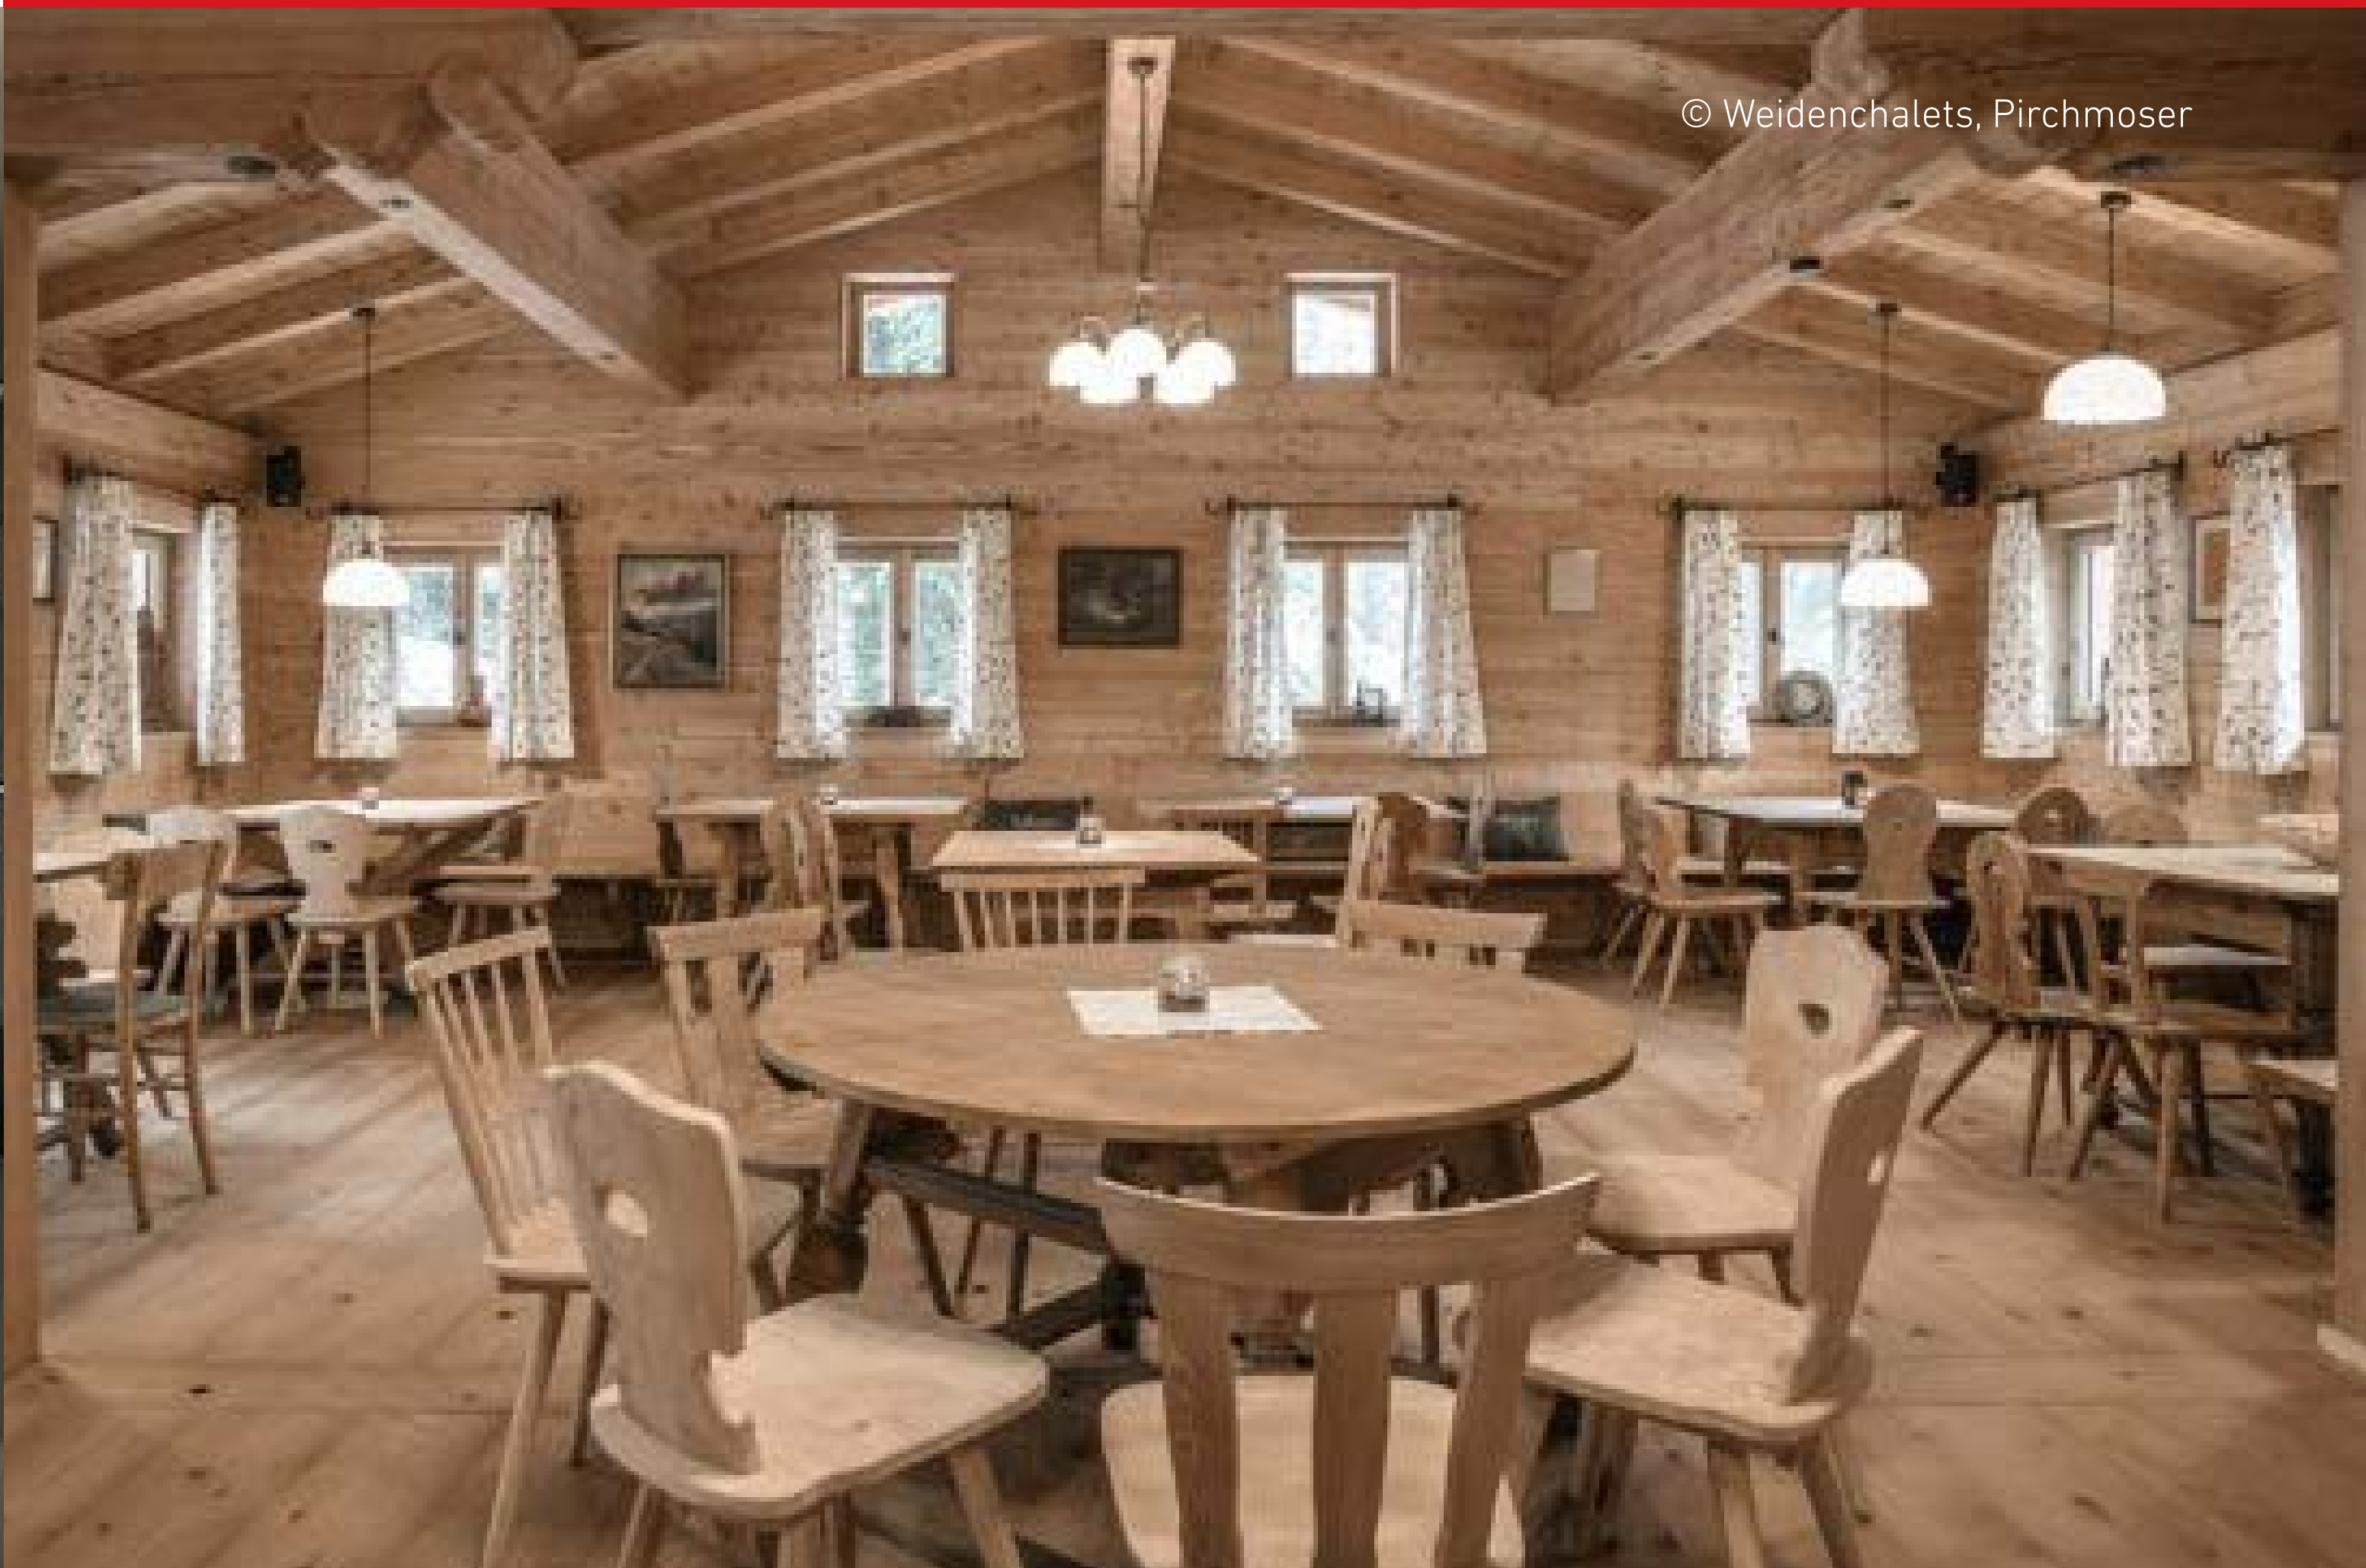

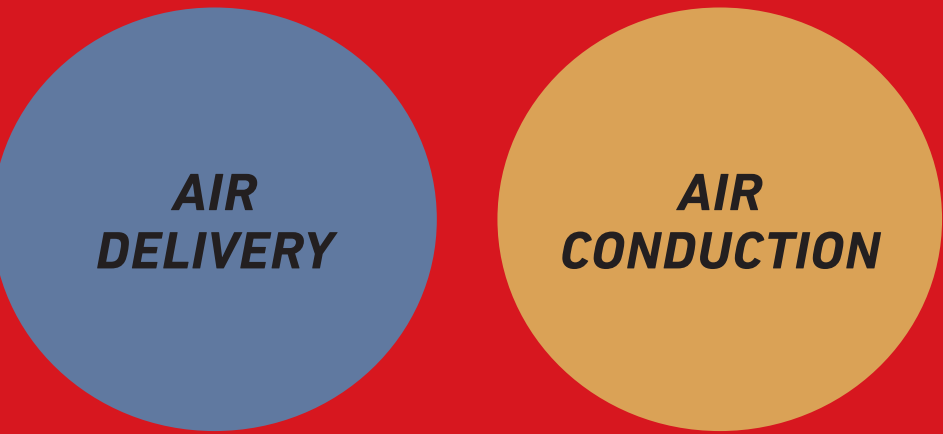

In the wooden chalets, issues such as humidity regulation and thus air exchange, as well as thermal comfort, play a major role, both for the well-being of the guests and for the protection of the building fabric. The solution installed was the Verso central ventilation unit from the Komovent series for controlled ventilation with integrated heat recovery.

The heat exchanger makes it possible to increase energy efficiency by utilising the heat from the outgoing air to preheat the incoming fresh air. This principle significantly reduces energy consumption for heating and cooling, which not only saves costs but also contributes to environmental protection.
